Additionally, the Library Staff is happy to instruct you personally on how to conduct a thorough research in the Library's resources, and the resources easily available online elsewhere.

Interlibrary Loan : When all other options prove unsuccessful, then utilize the Sonoran University Library's Interlibrary Loan Services to obtain your most desired medical journal article. Be aware that the Library requires the most fundamental citation information for each article. Also, the Library has now created an online form as a third option for submitting article requests, when the features through PubMed and iSearch are not applicable. Please be aware that if you do not provide the necessary citation information, we will be unable to locate your requested article and be forced to reject and return your request to you for more information. Please be sure to exhaust all other options for locating an article before submitting a request to the Library.
